PUPILS TO SALUTE FLAG

Pupils and students in Alberta schools who refuse or neglect to participate in any patriotic exercise required by school boards throughout the province, shall be guilty of an offence under the School Act, according to an amending Bill presented to members of the legislature in Edmonton on Friday, by the premier, who is also minister of education.

There are no penalty provisions in the act, but law officers of the crown stated that in cases where boys and girls refuse to take part in such exercises, action will be taken under the Juvenile Delinquents Act.

Mrs. Arthur Decoux returned by Saturday morning's train from Edmonton, where as regent of the local chapter she was a delegate to the Provincial Grand Chapter of the I. O. D. E. session.

Angus J. Morrison, M.L.A., secretary of District 18 of the U.M.W. of A.; Robert Livett, President, and Pat Cunroy, vice-president, are in Coleman this week end, endeavoring to find a solution of the work time; John Stokluk, organizer, is also on the spot.

SAMUEL ENNIS PASSES

A man who was rated as one of the earliest pioneers of the Crow's Nest Pass, and a most highly respected citizen and benefactor, passed on at 8 o'clock on Saturday evening in the person of Mr. Samuel Ennis at the age of 68 years.

His history dates back to a period prior to the advent of the railway, and almost ahead of the mining industry in this district. He saw the Pass years before the great slide halted operations at Frank, and was one of the first to arrive from Eastern Canada to settle in this district. With Mrs. Ennis and one or two children, he came from Fallbrook, Ontario, in 1901, making their home near Gold Creek, and here the balance of the family of seven children were born and raised until the family moved to Blairmore, somewhere around 1911, when they took over the present residence on Stuart Street. Here he engaged in the draying business and carried on up to the time of demise.

Surviving are his wife; four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Clark (Hazel), Mrs. Verquin (Glady), and Marion, of Vancouver, and Elaine, R.N. of Calgary; and two sons, Delbert and Arthur, in Blairmore. The youngest son, Edward, passed away in May of 1930.

Funeral took place from the family home on Wednesday afternoon, to the United church, where service was conducted by Rev. E. B. Arrol, B.A. Members of the Elks order, of which deceased was a member, attended in a body. The church was filled to overflowing, and the funeral procession was one of the largest seen in this district for some considerable time. Floral tributes were many. The remains were laid to rest in the family plot in the Union cemetery, with last rites of the church administered by Rev. E. B. Arrol, and by Bro. G. McFann for the Elks.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of A. E. Ferguson, of the Crow's Nest Funeral Home. Two members of the family, Mrs. Verquin and Marion, were unable to be present.

Palbearers were Bros. Sid White, W. Meier, R. W. Harold Pinkney, T. J. Costigan, J. Shaffer and F. Wiolet.

Miss Doris Craig, for some time stenographer in the Nanton branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia has been promoted to the position of teller. She is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. G. Craig, of Macleod, and formerly of Blairmore.

The local branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., has this week received letters and cards from the following, acknowledging receipt of parcels of cigarettes, etc.: William Knight, Albert Chappell, George Lord, Harry Lord, Albert Morris, Joseph Mett, Alex. Patterson and L. Gilmar, all overseas, and all from Blairmore.

WORDS OF INSPIRATION

A Thought a Day For a People At War

"Two reasons why the Italians have no heart for fighting in this war on the side of the Axis powers lie in their hatred of the Teutonic races as a whole, and a lingering memory of a great appreciation to the British Empire which aided the great freedom movement in Italy in the last century." —Rev. John Anderson, of St. Paul's United Church, Sarnia.

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

A group of young Hillcrest girls have organized a club, which they chose to call "The Willing War Workers." Mrs. R. Clarke, Mrs. R. MacKin and Mrs. A. Warriner are heading the organization. Helen Kyliak was chosen president, while Winifred Clarke accepted the position of secretary-treasurer. Other members include Katherine Douglas, Helen Grych, Mary McDougall, Mary Frolak, Olga Terlecki, Nellie Corbett and Angeline Colosimo. Their object is to knit and sew for evacuee children and in order to raise money will exhibit some of their work at a tea and sale in the near future. All interested should help this cause. Watch for further announcements.

St. Paul's United church, Coleman, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday evening last, when Mary Clarkson, eldest daughter of Mr. Dan Kyle and the late Mrs. Kyle, of Hillcrest, became the bride of Alexander, eldest son of Mr. John Balloch and the late Mrs. Balloch, of Coleman. Rev. Mr. Kirk performed the ceremony. The bride was beautifully attired in a dress of air-force blue with navy hat to match. A corsage of red roses completed her ensemble. Miss Janet Kyle, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and wore a navy blue ensemble with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of red roses. Mr. James Kyle supported the groom. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's father in Hillcrest, at which forty guests were present. The bride's table was beautifully decorated with tulips and centred with a three-tier wedding cake. A toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Robert Crichton, to which the groom responded in well chosen words. The evening was spent in community singing and old time dancing. The happy couple have taken up residence in Coleman, where the groom is on the staff of the Coleman Journal.

Mr. Harry Stobbs, prominent business man of Hillcrest, was the guest of honor at a farewell party in the Masonic hall on Wednesday evening last. Over forty persons were present and were entertained by the following artists: piano solo by Mr. W. G. Moffatt, violin solo by Mr. W. H. Moser, and a number of magical tricks by Mr. H. Harrison. Then, on behalf of those present, Mr. G. E. Cruickshank presented the honor guest with a beautifully engraved gold watch, while the Hillcrest Orchestra, with which he had been connected for some years, presented him with a gold watch chain. For many years Mr. Stobbs has been connected with the business life of Hillcrest. He was also secretary of the Crow's Nest Pass Musical Festival. He with his family left Wednesday to take up residence at Mission City, B.C.

The Blairmore post office received 198 War Savings Certificates from Ottawa Tuesday morning for distribution.

Mr. W. V. Cole, of Cole's Theatres, is to be congratulated on bringing to the people of these towns and districts the picture of "Pastor Hall." In so doing, he has brought us a glimpse of the evil we are fighting to destroy. He has made us, if possible, more firm in our determination that there must always be an England. —Ferne Free Press.

CANADIAN WAR SERVICES FUND

Toronto, April 7.—"I wish to address a renewed earnest appeal to the Canadian people and to the working members and canvassers belonging to our organization all over Canada," declared General A. D. McCrae, national chairman of the Canadian War Services Fund, in a recent statement. "On March 24th, after a period of intensive preparation, we asked Canadians to subscribe $5,500,000 for this fund," he continued.

"As of Saturday noon, April 5th, we had collected in money and firm pledges $8,414,253. These, it should be made plain, are the audit figures reported to headquarters.

"This is a marvellous showing for a period of twelve days' actual canvassing. In drives of this sort the audited figures do not represent the full extent of contributions and pledges made. Inevitably it means that there are many thousands of dollars pledged to or in the hands of local and provincial committees and not yet nationally reported. Our showing is so very encouraging that now I ask our canvassers to renew their efforts, that they go forward with redoubled vigor, because all we need to push our great enterprise over the top is a whirlwind finish.

"The average dollar-amount of individual subscriptions is high; the number of people actually canvassed in many areas is mighty far from 100 per cent. There are very few people who do not actually want to contribute to this fund. In many areas, by reason of weather and snow-bound roads, canvassing has not been developed to the full. Given a complete canvass this fund will go well over its objective. I wish to make this final appeal. There will be no difficulty in reaching the objective if our canvassers will take a new toe-hold and go again to work. This is no reflection on the great work they have done; but with the goal so short a distance ahead and no easy attainment if everybody does his and her part. I say to each canvasser who has not yet called on every household and every individual in his territory: 'Let us get busy and finish the work.'

"Wherever canvassers have called they have found that, through our newspaper publicity and the radio, the motion pictures and posters, and through the great effort of the churches, Canadians have been well informed and are exceptionally responsive to this fund and its purposes.

"As Mr. Churchill has said, 'Let us then to the task.' The goal is only a little distance ahead—come on and let's put it over."

The death occurred at Hillcrest on Wednesday evening of last week of Mrs. Felice Marfese, aged 48. She is survived by her husband, John Marfese, well known old-timer.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hottle arrived from Calgary on Tuesday evening to attend the funeral of Mr. Samuel Ennis on Wednesday. Mrs. Hottle was formerly Mrs. Edward Ennis, her first husband having passed away in May of 1930. They return to Calgary by motor today.

Canroose Training Centre No. 131 has now become the basic training centre for Alberta, with a full camp of 1,000 men in training, arriving in monthly quotas to receive the first part of their four months' training. These men are drawn from all parts of the province. They have a library and reading room, well equipped and furnished in a wonderful way with tables, easy chairs, free stationery supplied by the Salvation Army, an abundance of magazines and newspapers. Practically every daily and weekly newspaper published in Alberta is a welcome visitor to the centre, so that every boy in training can be in close touch with his home city town or district continually.

SALVATION ARMY LEADERS TO VISIT COLEMAN TODAY

A special Good Friday service will be held in the Salvation Army hall at Coleman at 8 p.m., conducted by Brigadier L. Ursaki, divisional commander for Alberta. Accompanying him and assisting at the service will be Mrs. Ursaki and their son Kenneth, also Lieut. W. Tanagi from Oids. Appropriate lantern slides will be shown, Lieut. Tanagi will sing, and the junior choir will take part. This promises to be a service well worth attending.

Easter Sunday, meetings at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. will be conducted by Lieut. Tanagi. He has visited The Pass on several occasions, is well known as a vocalist and is a proficient player of the guitar. This will be his first visit here since graduating from the training college in Toronto. He will remain in Coleman for two or three weeks to assist in the local work, and will be leading all meetings during that time.

A cordial invitation is extended to one and all to visit the Army for these special services.

COLEMAN TIEUP ILLEGAL

Hon. Norman A. McLarty, Canadian minister of labor, has forwarded the following telegram to A. F. Short, vice-president of the International and McGillivray mines at Coleman, where some 800 men had walked out in sympathy with 120 others:

"I am today wiring R. Livett, president of District 18 of the U.M.W. of A., that the strike on your property is illegal, and requesting him to have miners return to work at once and have any matter in dispute dealt with in an orderly manner under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act. Assistant Deputy Minister, Gerald H. Brown also wired Lorne A. Campbell, president of the companies, at Trail, that the departments had no advised Livett.

There will be two services in Blairmore United church on Easter Sunday, 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. At the close of the morning service the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be dispensed. All members, adherents and friends are urged to attend these services.

War Victims' Fund

Toronto Evening Telegram's Fund Has Now Passed Half Million Dollars Mark

Just as a thermometer rises steadily and surely in the increasing warmth of the morning sun, so does the Toronto Evening Telegram's Fund for War Victims' Fund steadily rise in the warmth of human sympathy for overseas victims of Hun frightfulness.

From the original $10 "stake" that saw the birth of the plan, the fund has now passed the half million dollar mark. And from an initial donation of $20 on September 11, the fund has grown until the daily average of contributions has reached $4.72.

Half a million dollars is a lot of money. But one night's raid, indeed one bomb, can do more than half a million dollars' damage.

This half-million dollars constitutes the largest newspaper fund in the history of Canadian journalism. It started 171 publishing days ago with a donation of $20 from Alda John Innes and his friends.

The fund "passed the Rubicon" March 31, with 200,000 contributions, amounting to $85,848.48, to rocket the grand total of $502,744.16. The largest day's total this year permitted the fund to wind up March with the largest daily average of contributions in its history—$4.72 per day.

Simultaneously with the fund passing the $500,000 mark another 8,000 pounds sterling was cabled overseas. This, the 28th remittance, swelled to $110,000 the amount sent to the Lord Mayor's National Air Raid Distress Fund, the central agency designated by Prime Minister Winston Churchill to minister to bomb victims in England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland.

Here is a letter from Sir George Wilkinson, Lord Mayor of London, to thank the fund for a recent installment of 8,000 pounds:

"Nothing is more wonderful than the way your readers have rallied to the British people in their hour of need. The indefatigable efforts made by your readers, their unflagging loyalty and devotion will always stand as a shining example of the wholehearted co-operation of the British Empire.

"It is impossible for me adequately to express my gratitude for their overwhelming generosity, which is inspired not only by their profound sympathy for the brave people in this country who have lost their homes, but also by the desire to see the triumph of right over wrong, of civilization over barbarism, and of freedom over despotism.

"In conveying to your contributors my heartfelt thanks, you will please inform them that, though many of their homes are lost, and many of their historic and treasured buildings battered, the spirit of the British people remains resolute and unconquerable, and their will to win through to final victory indomitable."

France's Loneliest Man

Former President Lebrun Never Goes Very Far From Home

Facing every day up and down the grounds of the beautiful chateau he refused to accept as a gift is "France's loneliest man"—former President Albert P. Lebrun. He and his wife have been living since last July within a stone's throw of the chateau at the home of his son-in-law and grand-children outside the village of Vitte.

Although completely at liberty, Lebrun seldom leaves his immediate neighborhood of his home. Occasionally he strolls into the village, but only rarely is he seen in the nearby town of Grenoble. Villagers who pass him near his house lift their hats and murmur respectfully: "Good day, Monsieur Le President." But this is the only homage he receives from his compatriots. Otherwise the third president's only presence to be noticed after leaving a full term receives no attention outside occasional attacks in the extremist press because he did not dissolve Parliament.

HOME SERVICE

MONEY DOESN'T LEAK AWAY WHEN YOU GO ON A BUDGET

I picked the what you need. On payday set aside about one-fifth of the money for rent, other portions for clothes, health and so on—and some for "foolishness." Then your spending's proof against the frittering which is so costly and unattractive.

You're tempted by a cute bargain hat? Buy it if it's the foolishness you've allowed for. But as clothes? Will there just be that much less for your clothes fund, for the smart spring wardrobe?

So simply your budget solves such financial puzzles. And with buying tips you can make your money stretch. You can save $50 to $100 a year on food by buying canned goods at sales, by having fish once in a while instead of meat.

Instead of being deprived of things you want you can budget and buy with a practical spending plan, easy to adapt to your income and needs. You can make your budget blank for a year's entries.

Grade Crossing Accidents

Heavy Toll Of Life In Canada, Mainly Through Carelessness

During the past year, 133 persons were killed and 485 were injured in 346 railway grade crossing accidents in Canada.

Sixty-eight of these accidents, taking the lives of 43 persons in the aggregate, occurred at crossings where protective safety devices were in operation.

More than half of the total accidents took place in broad daylight, under good visibility conditions.

One hundred and one accidents were caused, not by a train striking an automobile or truck, but, incredible as it may seem, by motorists running into the side of the train.

Carelessness on the part of the motoring-public is largely responsible for this appalling toll of death on Canada's railway crossings. The urge to hurry, to take a chance, to plunge ahead without a thought for elementary safety precautions, comes high in what is often a losing race with death.

Commencing with this issue in collaboration with the engineering department of the Canadian Pacific Railway, we will publish a graphic series of photographs and diagrams illustrating the cost of carelessness, in an attempt to bring the toll of tragic and unnecessary accidents.

Donations Pouring In

MILLIONS OF POUNDS SWELL FUND FOR PURCHASE OF SPITFIRE

The following story by William Mundy appeared in the Overseas Daily Mail:

I have just been to the Ministry of Aircraft Production. I have never been among so much money in my life. Every morning of every day there descend at the Ministry several hundreds of letters, each with a donation for the Spitfire Fund. And not only letters.

The other day an old woman climbed slowly up the steps of the Ministry, opened her shabby handbag, and handed over 25 pence notes. She refused her name. "For the R.A.F.," she said simply, and trotted off to the street.

For Spitfires pour in from all over the world. After an hour spent in the Ministry of Aircraft Production, wading through hundreds of letters enclosing funds, I began to feel dizzy. Already the Spitfire Fund has reached the ten million mark. Some of £10,000 are commonplace. £50 is a bagatelle.

I was amazed to read letters which began and ended quite simply: "I enclose £20,000 for Spitfires," or, "I enclose £100,000 for Spitfires." I was amazed to read letters which began and ended quite simply: "I enclose £20,000 for Spitfires," or, "I enclose £100,000 for Spitfires." I was amazed to read letters which began and ended quite simply: "I enclose £20,000 for Spitfires," or, "I enclose £100,000 for Spitfires."

From the four corners of the earth the gifts come. Foreign holdings in diamond mines, railways, ranches, oil wells, salmon fisheries, sheep runs, and goldfields owned by every nationality under the sun.

The gifts from children—of sums from sixpence upwards—are too numerous to detail. The sale of lavender bags, bottle-corks, and foreign stamps provide a lot of these contributions.

Jewelry, silver plate, family heirlooms, engagement rings, and sentimental treasures are handed in. A man in Uruguay cabled £10,000 and promised £1,000 each month. "He keeps it up, too," an official at the Ministry told me.

I picked the following haphazardly: A Cairo group sent £5,000. A sheep farm in the Falkland Islands sent £60. Mayors of South Africa sent £250,000 "and more coming."

Burma sends £100,000. Basutoland £150,000, and another £100,000 from the Nias of Hyderabad. The people of Goshapur £15,000.

I tried to reckon up the total from India, but gave it up—my head reeled.

The men of the Services themselves forward donations. H.M.C.S. Mess No. 9 posted 10s. 8d. With it was this note: "We charge 1d. a time for swearing. We feel certain that further instalments will follow this."

John Bishop, of Newmarket, Lanarkshire, sent 10s. "This is my first old age pension. I have worked 53 years in the mines. I served in the old Volunteers in the Boer War, also in France during the last year. I am now in the Home Guard, and feel sure that I will give a good account of myself if Hitler or any others of his gang offer to try me out."

England's Small Towns

If it weren't for the soldiers on the streets and the one lump of sugar for your coffee it would be hard to realize a war was on when you visit many of England's small cities and towns which have never known the crunch of a bomb, writes Ernie Pyle. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

APRIL 13

CHRIST SHOWS HIMSELF ALIVE

Golden text: I was dead, and behold, I am alive for evermore. Revelation 1:18.

Lesson: Luke 24:1-48.

Devotional reading: Revelation 1:12-18.

Explanations and Comments

On the Way to Emmaus, Luke 24:13-27. On the day of the resurrection two of Christ's followers (not of the Twelve) were on their way to the village of Emmaus sixty furlongs or seven and a half miles from Jerusalem. Their eyes were downcast, their hearts burdened with sorrow as they discussed the events of the last three days. Then Jesus appeared and joined them in their walk.

The two did not recognize Jesus for their eyes were hidden. "Hiden" is the archaic form of "hidden." Their eyes were laid hold of, even as the eyes of a child when a playmate stands back of him, claps his hands over his eyes, and cries, "Guess who it is!"

At Emmaus, Luke 24:28-32. Jesus "made as though" he would continue on his way. This was not pretence, for he would have gone on had they not earnestly urged him to tarry. What they had heard made them loth to part with him. "Abide with us," they begged; "for it is toward evening and the day is now far spent." At the evening meal their relationship changed; their unrecognized Guest became their host as he offered the customary grace and then broke the bread and gave it to them. In the breaking of the bread their eyes were suddenly opened and they knew him.

The Report to the Disciples, Luke 24:33-35. The two hastened that very hour to Jerusalem and found the 11 disciples and others loth in amazement over the good news which they brought. "The Lord is risen, indeed and hath appeared to Simon."

Then in their turn the two told what had happened on the way to Emmaus and how they had recognized Christ as he supped with them and broke the bread.

Warning Has Been Issued

Postal Regulations Forbid Sending Inflammable Substances Through Mails

A stern warning against enclosing matches, cigarette lighter fluid or other inflammable substances in the mails has been issued by Dominion postal authorities at Ottawa.

The warning points out that it is contrary to the postal regulations for any person to post for delivery any inflammable, explosive, dangerous or destructive substance or liquid, through the mails and the person doing so is liable to prosecution.

The warning is particularly directed against those persons who have been sending matches and lighter fluid in parcels for troops overseas. Postal officials say that instances have occurred of these parcels igniting. If this were to occur aboard ship, and the ship were to be destroyed, it would constitute a "valuable stroke of work for the enemy."

Health LEAGUE OF CANADA presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

A VANISHING PROFESSION

There are two major programmes to defend health; the one is preventive; the other curative. "Together," says Hygieia, "they are doing remarkable things." Anything that can be done to improve any part of these programmes so much the better. For a long period, at least for 400 years, in the British world, the apothecary or pharmacist has been an important element in the curative process.

The term "pharmacy," comes from the Greek word "pharmakon," meaning drug or remedy. The business of the pharmacist, apothecary or druggist, is concerned with dispensing medicine. The apothecary, as he was called in England, was, during the time of Henry VIII, one of the three roots of medicine, the others being the ecclesiastical and the barber.

The apothecary first, was sort of grocer; he sold drugs, groceries and other articles in household use. Then he became one of the branches of medicine just as the ecclesiastical (the priest) became a doctor and the barber became a surgeon.

Now after the pharmacist is in the way of again becoming a sort of grocer. He no longer confines his business to the selling or dispensing of drugs and medical and surgical necessities. As a profession the pharmacist is vanishing.

A drug store, these days sells everything from drugs (its least concern) to hot and cold drinks, merchandise and nearly everything except plumbing. A few, alive to the old traditions of the profession, encourage themselves to the filling of prescriptions and research into the uses of drugs. They desire, and not without hope, to revive the former interest in real pharmacy. They should be encouraged. They are being encouraged. Universities have extended the course of training to four years instead of a few months.

Gardening

Shrubs, trees and perennial flowers have a fearful habit of taking up more room when grown up than the average gardener anticipated. Generally speaking, the more you plant, the more you will have to remove.

Such things, allow half as much space between, and away from fences or walls, as the normal heights for these plants in the catalogue. Thus the most common type of Spirea, the Van Hornet which reaches a full height of from six to eight feet in most parts of Canada, should be planted from a corner of the garden at the same distance from walk, wall or fence, for decorative effect. For a hedge, however, it may be planted closer.

Again the common peony, which grows to a height of two feet and a half when full grown, should have about 18 inches between plants.

Good Seed

It is impossible to over-emphasize the importance of good seed. Other factors may be beyond control, but the gardener has absolute control over the seed. The seed is the foundation upon which the garden is built. Location may be ideal, but without good seed specially selected to suit Canadian conditions the garden is going to be a failure.

Have Vegetables Handy In the kitchen garden, at the door, it is advisable of course to keep a plentiful supply of salad materials like leaf and head lettuce, onions and, possibly, celery. The latter is set out in the garden as well started plants usually after all danger of frost is over.

For vegetable rows, there are small cultivators pushed by hand which will cultivate a plot 100 by 50 in well under an hour and these can be procured in larger size for horse or tractor.

If a supply of cut flowers is wanted for the table, blooms with long stems that will keep well in water, hortensias, gladioli, lilies, etc., are the planting of sweet pea, snapdragons, cosmos, sinuata, lupine, African marigolds, carnations, etc., in simple double, verbenas and salpiglossia. If preferred these can be grown in rows in the vegetable garden.

Flyers From East India Account For Many Nazi Machines

East Indian air squadrons are playing "conspicuous roles" in the Battle of Britain, the British Broadcasting Corporation reported. The BBC said the airmen, now taking part in operations against northern France, fly Spitfires purchased from contributions to the East India fund. One squadron already has shot down more than 100 enemy aircraft.

Winston Churchill himself built the brick wall which surrounds his house, Chartwell, in Kent.

WHEN DEATH WON THE RACE

Beginning to-day, this paper, in collaboration with the engineering department of the Canadian Pacific Railway, presents a graphic new series, in photo and diagram, in its campaign to halt the appalling toll of railway crossing accidents, which took 133 lives in Canada last year. One almost incredible feature of the 1940 death list was that out of a total of 346 accidents, 101 were caused by the auto or truck involved actually running into the side of a speeding train, as illustrated above. Elementary caution in approaching the crossing would have averted a fatal crash.

OLD PROPHECY TO BE FULFILLED

The national savings committee in London, in one of its striking advertisements, recalls a world prophecy made some 200 years ago by the poet Thomas Gray, author of Elegy. Written in a Country Churchyard, Gray wrote the lines in Latin, the translation is given in these words:

The time will come, when thou shalt lift thine eyes,
To watch a long-drawn battle in the skies,
While aged peasants, too amazed for words,
Stare at the flying fleet of wondrous birds.

England, so long the mistress of the seas,
Where winds and waves confess her sovereignty,
Her ancient triumphs yet on high shall bear,
And reign, the sovereign of the conquered air.

If the poet was prophet enough to predict correctly a "long-drawn battle in the skies" 200 years later, the rest of his prophecy should come true; also Britons know it will. They can make its fulfillment doubly sure by putting every ounce of energy and every dollar they can spare—yes, every dollar they can afford to spare, judged by normal peace-time standards—into the Empire's war effort. Canadians are hearing the insistent call to labor and sacrifice right now more clearly than ever before. —Edmonton Journal.

FAMOUS BUTCHART GARDENS AT VICTORIA TO REMAIN OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

Vancouver, April 7.—"It looks like another big tourist year insofar as the Pacific coast is concerned, and a most welcome piece of news to offer the tourists is that the world famous Butchart's Gardens will remain open to the public," stated George McNicholl, general passenger agent for Canadian National Railways, here. Some time ago it was announced that owing to ill health Mr. and Mrs. Butchart had been forced to shed the responsibility of looking after the famous gardens.

These gardens have an international reputation and are a great magnet to tourists from all over the world. For the past 35 years the gardens have been maintained by Mr. Butchart and thrown open to the public. This public spirit has been one of the finest tourist attractions the Pacific coast has had.

Arrangements have just been concluded whereby the gardens will be maintained and a modest fee will be charged for admission, the money going to a fund to look after wages, etc., throughout the year, as quite a large staff of gardeners is necessary. The announcement that the gardens will remain open will be immensely popular with the travelling public.

AN EDITOR DOES NOTHING

Every Thursday someone cracks down with the suggestion, "Now that the paper is out you'll have nothing to do until next Thursday." This kind of talk gives us a pain. How delightful it is that a country editor has practically nothing to do between press days. Business, in a printing office, runs along automatically. When the paper bills come due, money falls off the trees with which to pay it.

Subscribers vie with each other to see who can pay the farthest in advance. Advertisers beg for additional space, and the way the news hunts up the editor is also pleasing to contemplate. When the paper is out, the editor simply goes to his desk, leans back in his easy chair and waits until next week's press day. The day before, people line up at the office door and file past the desk and tell him all the news of the week, which he writes up in 15 minutes, takes it back and hangs it on the hook. The compositor takes it back in front of the Linotype machine, with a few mystic words, and it does the rest. The editor goes down town to deposit some money. Yes, running a paper is the greatest snap in the catalog. Now if we could only do away with press day, the joy would be complete.

HOW THE IROQUOIS GOT THEIR NAME

The famous Indian Confederacy, the League of the Long House, known as the Ho-de-nau-sa-ne, was probably established in 1390, a date given by Duncan C. Scott, F.R.S.C., former director of Indian affairs for Canada, in his "Traditional History of the Confederacy of the Six Nations." At that time there were five nations in what is now the State of New York: the Oneidas, Onondagas, Cayugas, Senecas and Mohawks. After 1390 these Indians called themselves the "Indians of the Long House." When the French reached these Indians, they heard two words again and again: "Iro" (I have spoken) and "Kwaah," an exclamation of varied meaning; and they said, "Why, these are Iroquois Indians," and that is the name given them in histories.

When the Tuscaroras arrived north to join them, about 1714, the Five Nations thus became the Six Nations, so that the three names—the Indians of the Long House, the Iroquois and the Six Nations of New York State—are synonymous.—Ex.

MAYORS OF CANADA BACK UNITED FUND

Ottawa, April 2.—"We have never let our lads down before and I am confident we will not let them down," Stanley Lewis, mayor of Ottawa, said recently as president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors in a statement supporting the Canadian War Services Fund.

Enthusiastically endorsing the united national appeal for $5,500,000 made on behalf of Canada's armed forces at home and overseas by the Canadian Legion, I.O.D.E., in the four western provinces, Knights of Columbus, Salvation Army, Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A., Mayor Lewis commended the principle of the unified drive.

Speaking on behalf of all the mayors of Canada, he said that this one big appeal will reduce campaign expenses to a minimum and at the same time relieve the public of responding to six separate solicitations throughout the next 12 months.

HALTING TILL TOO LATE?

Is America going to send help "too late," because a few Muscovite labor leaders, bent on destruction of capitalist America, and their blind followers, refuse to work? Labor thus acts, when the very civilization that gave it a high standard of living is endangered. They are traitors, in my humble opinion. Their action is as traitorous as graft in politics or dishonesty and strong-arming among capitalist leaders.—J. H. Boston, in Christian Science Monitor.

The public are interested to know just why Manitoba should have drawn more tourists than Alberta, for Alberta has the biggest attractions of practically all the provinces.

Rt. Hon. W. L. MACKENZIE KING

It is your privilege to attend the church of your choice... to worship as your conscience wills.

A Nazi world means the end of the church you love. It means compulsion to accept a form of worship prescribed by political dictators.

In the words of the Prime Minister, "When we speak of the preservation of democracy, of Christianity and of civilization, we use no idle words... the existence of all three is at stake."

Freedom of worship is one of the priceless privileges that all Canadians enjoy. That dearly-bought right is in jeopardy. Therefore we must all unite in supporting Canada's war effort in order to preserve this Freedom.

Climaxing complete change in the administration of The Game Act in Alberta, E. S. Huettis has been appointed game commissioner. Mr. Huettis is at present acting assistant director of forests, and will continue to hold this position. Considered one of Canada's greatest revolver shots, he served in the R.C.M.P. prior to joining the department. Under the new administration, forest rangers will also act as game guardians, and the forestry division's radio intelligence service will also be used in the interest of game management.

According to a report from Bucharest, quoted by German circles in Belgrade, there is good reason to believe (says a Sofia despatch picked up in Moscow from the Ankara radio) that Hitler plans a thrust through Russia with the intention of invading Canada via the North Pole. In a recent issue of The Enterprise we ran the following item: "Chinese citizens are among the most loyal of British subjects in Canada, and respond voluntarily to any appeal that is made, not only to help win the war, but any local enterprise for which they are approached for funds." The Drumheller Mail comments: "Despite this, two Drumheller canvassers were a bit hesitant about approaching an Oriental who operates a shoe hospital. They didn't think the fund would receive any material boost from this source, but the determination to interview everyone in the block persuaded them to parley vooz with the sole-and-heel man. A few minutes later the canvassers walked out of the establishment with a forty-dollar cheque, a substantial and surprising addition to their day's take. Early this week a gang of men were employed by the town to clean up the parks and public thoroughfares. And they're making a good job of it. Blainmore really should be a town beautiful, and it will be. But, in order to get anywhere, stores should not allow paper, etc., to drift away from their premises. We have a dump ground for such.

At the annual meeting and banquet of the Fort Curling Club at Fort Saskatchewan recently, Gwilym Evans, former Blainmore boy, was elected president. A pioneer Pass business man passed away at Coleman last week end in the person of Mr. K. A. Saad. He will be remembered by oldtimers as formerly operating a large dry goods store in what was known as the Farmer-Wheeler building in Bellevue, later destroyed by fire. The site is now occupied by the Emerson Hardware store. Since that fire, Mr. Saad has resided in Coleman with relatives. The remains were laid to rest on Saturday, A. E. Caragana hedges around our central school grounds, installed at considerable cost to the ratepayers, are being destroyed, apparently willfully, by someone. We thank some kind friends this week for their thoughtfulness in taking our window curtains away for their annual bath. Really upon their return they looked as cheerful as one of those human chickens coming out of the famous Banff swimming pool. The curtains have been a big attraction since. GROWN IN SUNNY, SOUTHERN ONTARIO

A Morale Restorative

Whatever may be the ultimate outcome of the revolt of the people of Yugoslavia against the betrayal of their country by their erstwhile rulers, it is one of the most significant events that has so far occurred in the progress of the war on the European continent, and even if it does not prevent that country from eventually being gobbled up by the Nazi hordes it will have a long-range and far-reaching effect on the course of the conflict and possibly upon its duration.

The immediate practical effect of the unexpected turn of events in Yugoslavia, of course, is to have put a very bad crimp in Adolf Hitler's plans. It has slowed up his triumphal march to the southeast at a time when rapid movement was a vital necessity to the success of his major objective, the campaign to defeat Britain, before Italy can be knocked out and before material assistance from the United States turns the scales definitely against the Axis powers.

But the blow which Hitler has received at the hands of the common people of Yugoslavia can be calculated to have an even more important effect in the bolstering of morale which it will furnish for the people of those countries which have been brought under the Nazi yoke and who are now looking around agonizingly for some sign that the fetters which bind them will eventually be knocked off.

Further, the magnificent example of the action of the Serbs will do much to encourage the people of other countries, not yet under the Nazi yoke, whose rulers Hitler might expect to use as pawns in his game of conquest by subversive methods, followed by display of mechanized military might.

It is possible that history may eventually show that the stiffened resistance to Nazi demands put up by the populace of Yugoslavia proved to be the turning point in the war on the continent of Europe, not only because of its immediate result, but because of its effect on the later course of the war.

Waiting For The Day

Out of the thick pall of murky which overhangs the gloom of Nazi-ruled Europe, sufficient evidence is trickling through to demonstrate beyond doubt that millions of the subjugated peoples are anxiously awaiting the moment when from within, they can give effective help to their deliverers from without.

In every one of these subjugated countries millions are playing the game of passive resistance to the decrees and the policies of the hated conqueror. Some of the more daring are engaging in overt acts of sabotage, whenever and wherever an opportunity is afforded. In most of these countries secret and skilfully hidden radio transmitters are keeping the people informed of what is going on beyond their own narrow boundaries. As a result Hitler is forced to keep large standing armies on guard in every one of the countries that he has added to his collection in the past 18 months, reducing equipment and personnel available for his program of further expansion and for carrying on his war against Britain. Even in those countries where the particularly harsh treatment as has been meted out to the Poles has been modified, the sufferings of the people have been and are sufficiently severe to make them "non-co-operative." Half-starved, while their conquerors live on the best that is available; robbed of all liberty and privileges, millions of these people are too proud to bow in submission and only await the propitious moment to arise once more and assert themselves.

Spirit Is There

A few incidents related in the Continental press illustrate the spirit abroad in the conquered countries. Three thousand people, many of them from afar, attended the funeral of a Norwegian sailor who was killed by the bayonet of a German soldier when he resented remarks made by the soldier while the Norwegian was walking with a girl of his own nationality in the town park of Molde.

A Dutchman was sentenced to three years when he seriously injured a German soldier in a cafe by throwing a beer glass at him. Three young Dutchmen were sentenced to 18 months imprisonment for expressing their enmity to the German forces by taking the caps of German officers from a restaurant cloakroom and tearing them to pieces. "Certainly a mild sentence for this great insult," declared the German court.

In Brussels, Belgium, when Germans board trams all the other passengers alight. The cinema which show German news reels are empty.

In spite of tremendous privations and persecutions, Polish resistance is growing. In Kalisz, a Polish technician was imprisoned for publicly talking of damage by R.A.F. raids on Berlin. In Lodz, a 17-year-old boy was sentenced to ten years imprisonment on the charge of insulting a German official. In Dortmund, a special tribunal sentenced a Pole to death who had left his work in Germany and resisted arrest. In a village near Magdeburg, Germany, three German women were sentenced to 18 months imprisonment for giving food and cigarettes to Polish prisoners of war.

Incidents of these kind could be multiplied by hundreds and by thousands, if only all the information were available. It demonstrates the spirit that is abroad among these people, and the heartening effect upon them and the stimulus it will give to continued resistance as the news of the Yugoslav revolt penetrates to the innermost corners can scarcely be over-emphasized.

Study Plans For Additional Work In Southern Alberta

Appointment of federal and provincial committees to study the possibility of constructing a large number of additional irrigation works and providing water for about twice the area now under irrigation in southern Alberta was announced by Agriculture Minister MacMillan.

Among the projects to be studied by the committee, Mr. MacMillan said, is a plan for the best use of the waters of the peace of the St. Mary's and Milk rivers running through Alberta.

Loose Thinking

Careless Talk That Does Not Aid The War Effort

Ah, well, say the end-of-everything school, what is the use of worrying? Everybody is going broke, anyway. We might as well spend while we have the money. If this school prevails, we certainly shall go broke, and it will not be the rich who will suffer chiefly. It will be the "great middle class," the vast majority of Canadians, the four million men and women who have savings in the bank, the three and a half millions who have life insurance policies.

They will be the chief victims of this "end-of-everything" theory, for that theory, if it catches our governments, will surely mean the end of savings, of fixed incomes, of life insurance. But it need not be the end of everything if we keep our heads and tighten our belts—Vancouver Sun.

Had Grandstand View

British Seaman Describes Destruction Of Two German Subs

Destruction of two German U-boats, a phase of the war seldom mentioned in official dispatches, was described by a merchant seaman, who said he had a grandstand view and that it was the "most thrilling experience of my life."

(The dispatch indicated that the seaman was in a convoy attacked at night by a pack of U-boats.)

Warships, with "hull" signals dapping from their yards, charged into the attack, throwing out depth charges, the seaman said.

"Star shells and Very lights illuminated the sky. Searchlights swept the water. There was a series of dull explosions as the depth charges went off. Great columns of water were hurled up."

"The water scarcely had settled back before the first U-boat broke the surface. It was badly battered, and as I watched, it split up and slipped back into the oily sea."

More depth charges splashed into the sea, the seaman said, and soon the ocean trembled with muffled explosions. Then the second U-boat jerked into view.

"When she broke the surface the warships' guns let go a salvo and the U-boat was blown to pieces before my eyes," the seaman said.

Like Canada

Australian Flyers Find Weather Here Invigorating

Romance has come to a number of Australians who have journeyed thousands of miles to attend advanced flying schools in Canada under the British Commonwealth Air Training plan.

"Your winter has not only been most invigorating and the hospitality of your people magnificent, but some of our young men have also found romance in your country," said Air Vice-Marshal S. J. Goble, chief of the Australian air mission, who has just completed a tour of schools where Australians are being trained.

Regulations do not permit a cadet to marry while he is undergoing training, but the air vice-marshal said that once the course was completed applications for marriage would be considered "and no doubt granted."

Although most of the Australian airmen have come to Canada from a climate approaching sub-tropical they weathered the rigors of their first Canadian winter with a minimum of illness.

Risky For Submarines

Icebergs Likely To Keep U-Boats Longer On The Surface

In extreme northern waters icebergs abound in the late spring and early summer, states Arthur Brock, in the New York Times. They constitute an especial risk for submerged craft, since a great part of their bulk is below the surface. This, it is believed, will keep the submarines on the surface of the ocean more often and for longer periods than suits their purpose. The distance from their quarry at which aircraft can detect them, and the long span of daylight in those latitudes, offset to some extent the protection of darkness. These are the catches for the submarines.

China Still Goes Ahead

Engineers Begin Surveys For Highway Across Mountains To India

The Sault Daily Star says: There is no keeping China down. A group of Chinese engineers has left Chungking for southern Szechwan Province to begin surveys for a highway from Ningyuan across Tibet and across some of the highest mountains in the world to Sadiya, Assam, India. If constructed, the 1,000-mile highway would open a new back door to India and connect the upper Yangtze River with a railway running northward in India in Chitangong. The route would cross mountains 20,000 feet high and the construction would be one of the most daring and difficult highway jobs ever undertaken.

Idea Not Very Popular

Many Americans Think Food For France Will Benefit Germany

Apparently a tentative agreement has been reached between the United States and Great Britain to permit American food to go to un-occupied France. The food will be shipped in French ships and will be distributed under the direction of the American Red Cross. The Vichy Government will be asked to give strict guarantees that none of the food will be diverted elsewhere.

Many Americans will regret that this country is to undertake feeding of France. No matter what safeguards are imposed and no matter how strict the supervision, Hitler will benefit directly or indirectly from this decision.

Fortunately the venture is in the nature of an experiment. Even many of those who advocate it frankly admit their misgivings, and say that the venture cannot be guided by how this first attempt works out. In other words, our policy and that of Great Britain with respect to feeding France is still uncertain. That will be determined later.

We would discuss greatly to see the United States adhere to the course it is our duty to feed all the peoples that Hitler has enslaved. That certainly would be playing into the hands of the Germans with a vengeance. Hitler has announced that any ship carrying food to England, whether they be American ships or not, will be promptly sunk.

In the face of this we ship food into territory controlled by the Germans and ask the British to permit those who do to give food and medicine.

Great Britain has been reluctant to yield on this matter. She yields now, undoubtedly, because of American pressure and against her own better judgment. Now that the decision appears to have been made, we in this country whose position has been similar to that of the British will yield too, but we do so with reservations and in the hope that if the result of the experiment justifies our fears it will not be continued.—Watertown, N.Y., Daily Times.

SELECTED RECIPESBRAN DUMPLINGS TOP THE STEW

Try them on the family, and remember the one general rule for cooking: If your stew is very liquid, remove some of the liquid (keeping it hot) before cooking the dumplings. Your stew should be "meaty" enough to keep the dumpling up while it is cooking.

Nazis Cannot Control Thoughts

The Dutch have been told, in just so many words, that even to think had thoughts of their German conquerors would be done at the risk of death. This is where the Nazis make their grossest miscalculation. They cannot by the sword-destroy the intellect or subdue the spirit of those whom they oppress. And this will prove their undoing.—The Argonaut.

Story Of A British Pilot Attached By Four Nazi Planes

A spectacular three-mile "dive to victory" by the pilot of a Royal Air Force Spitfire, attacked by four German Messerschmitt 109's 20,000 feet above the sea, was described by the British air ministry.

The ministry said the British pilot eluded the Germans' concentrated assault, put his nose down and "went into a dive of such velocity that the transparent cover of the cockpit was torn off and the goggles whipped off his face."

At 4,000 feet above the English Channel waters, he pulled out of his dive and saw a German plane which had been pursuing him hurtle past out of control and plunge into the sea.

War Services Campaign

Elevator Agents In Saskatchewan Soliciting Donations Of Wheat

The Canadian War Services Fund has enlisted as workers the 3,200 elevator agents in Saskatchewan. If on an average 100 bushels of wheat are donated by the growers at each elevator, it would mean that 320,000 bushels would be contributed by the farmers of this province. Every wheat grower in Saskatchewan will be canvassed by the elevator men, and it is confidently expected that the objective will not only be reached, but greatly exceeded. The province of Saskatchewan has undertaken to raise the sum of $283,000 in support of the fund, and if everyone in both urban and rural sections will do their part there is every reason to expect that the campaign will go over the top. If we are to maintain for ourselves and our posterity the freedom which we now enjoy, we must be prepared to make every sacrifice for its preservation.

PREMIER TELEKI OF HUNGARY TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Budapest.—Count Paul Teleki, the premier who aligned Hungary with the Axis but fought to keep her from falling completely under German domination, was found dead in bed, and authoritative sources said he put a bullet through his brain.

Most Hungarians agreed that the man they knew as the great diplomatic tightrope walker took his life because he could not continue his precarious balancing act.

Death came as motorized German troops moved to southern Hungary; amid reports that the Nazis were demanding Hungarian army help to attack Yugoslavia, with which Teleki had made a friendship pact.

He left farewell notes to his invalid wife and to the Hungarian regent, Admiral Nicholas Horthy.

There were reports that in the latter note he detailed his feeling that Hungary no longer could hold out against Germany, and that his two-year efforts had failed.

He is reported to have told the cabinet that: "The future is hopeless."

Count Istvan Casky, who as foreign minister helped arrange the Axis and Yugoslav agreements, died only last Jan. 27 at the age of 46 of an illness officially attributed to food poisoning. He was stricken as he returned from concluding the Yugoslav pact.

Casky's successor, Foreign Minister Dr. Laszlo de Bardossy, was designated as premier to succeed the government succeeding that of Teleki, which resigned when Teleki's death became known.

(The German radio said Teleki's death was "a great loss to Hungary, and Germany mourns the loss of a great friend.")

Teleki called himself a tightrope walker in describing his activities on one occasion.

Two years ago he said he hoped "never to live to see Hungary go to war against Britain or the United States."

Only now can it be disclosed that Teleki was one of those behind the book "Why Germany Cannot Win the War," which broke all sales records in Hungary.

Teleki told the author, Ivan Lajos, that he intended to ban the book after it had sold 100,000 copies. He added that he would ban it before that unless a copy was put in the hands of every Hungarian army officer.

Count Teleki, born in 1879, was a professor of geography at Budapest University before entering politics at the close of the first Great War.

He became minister of social affairs in 1918 and minister of peace negotiations the next year, in which capacity he helped to formulate the peace settlement.

In 1920 he was made foreign minister and in the same year formed two cabinets, both of which fell after existing only a few months.

Soon after Count Teleki became premier in 1939, Hungary signed the anti-Communist pact which formally allied his country with Germany.

The same day his government dissolved the National-Socialist party organization in Hungary. This action was not unexpected, at least in the homeland, for Teleki long has been known as a foe of political strong-arm methods. The party was banned as a menace to public safety.

Air Ace Receives Three Decorations At One Investiture

London.—One of England's aces of the second Great War, Pilot Officer Eric Lock, was presented with three decorations in a recent investiture at Buckingham palace, it was disclosed.

When the 21-year-old Spitfire pilot with 22 confirmed and nine probable enemy aircraft to his credit received the Distinguished Service Order, the Distinguished Flying Cross, and the Bar to the latter from His Majesty, it was believed to be only the second time in history that an officer had been three times decorated at the same investiture.

The first time was when King George V. pinned the Victoria Cross, the Military Cross and the Distinguished Service Order on Canada's Billy Bishop, leading air ace of 1914-15.

Pilot Officer Lock, the youngest officer in this war to win the D.S.O., limped to the dais to accept the awards and then returned to the hospital where he has been three months recovering from 15 leg wounds as the result of an engagement with a German Messerschmitt.

Taking Of Canada's Census Will Make Valuable Data Available

Ottawa.—Five cents will be paid census enumerators for every living Canadian recorded on the population schedule form, which will be carried by enumerators as the count of Canada's population proceeds this summer, the trade and commerce department has made known.

About 17,000 enumerators will make the count, starting June 2 and carrying with them about white paper sheets which, when completed, will give names of members of every household, war service, the exact place of residence, value of the home or rental paid, the kind of dwelling and the number of rooms.

Former Premier Of Yugoslavia Is In British Hands

London.—Richard Butler, under-secretary for foreign affairs, informed the House of Commons that Milan Stojadinovic, pro-Nazi former premier of Yugoslavia, has been admitted to British territory.

The under-secretary said that on March 15 the former Yugoslav government advised the British authorities he was being expelled and requested that they admit him and "keep him there."

"Mr. Stojadinovic is now, therefore, in British hands and will be kept in detention in British territory," he said.

Britain Anxious To Have More Protection For Convoys

London.—Lt. Cmdr. Reginald Fletcher, parliamentary private secretary to Mr. A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, said in a talk quoted by the British Broadcasting Corporation that the present scale of Allied shipping losses is "not high enough for Hitler to achieve victory in 1941."

"We can only win by obtaining mastery in the Atlantic,"

Commenting on the amount of protection given convoys, he said "some people believe that finding escort vessels is like calling taxis. We all know how easy it is to get a taxi on a fine day but when it's wet we have to wait a long time."

"For the navy it is raining over all the oceans in the world."

BATTLESHIP HAD MAJOR ROLE IN NAVAL VICTORY

Alexandria.—The battleship Valiant, heaviest armed of the British Mediterranean fleet, was credited with the major role in the destruction of Italy's two prize 10,000-ton cruisers, the Fiume and the Zara, during the sea battle south of Crete.

Captain Charles Eric Morgan, descendant of the famous Welsh bard, Henry Morgan, who plundered the West Indies in the 17th century, said his gunners on the Valiant scored direct hits with at least 75 per cent. of the projectiles they hurled at the two cruisers. Another 10,000-ton cruiser, the Pola, and two destroyers were lost by the Italians.

The targets of the 30,000-ton Valiant's shells were lit by Midshipman Prince Philip, 19-year-old first cousin of King George of Greece, who was in charge of the searchlight control room.

With the help of her sister ship, the Warrior, Captain Morgan said, the Valiant turned on the Fiume and the Zara into "colossal masses of fire." Many 15-inch shells penetrated the cruisers' six-inch armor and exploded inside.

It was a most ghastly sight. The Fiume seemed to just burst out amidships.

"The Warrior opened with the first broadside and seven seconds later the Valiant's guns roared followed by the 31,000-ton Barham."

"Only four minutes, six seconds elapsed from the Warrior's broadsides to the Barham."

"Great glooms from the Fiume illuminated the darkness as if someone had thrown a log on a fire. The whole ship seemed to disintegrate, many of our shells exploding inside her turning her into a raging inferno."

"With the Fiume out of action, the Valiant turned on the Zara and poured 35 tons of projectiles into her."

"There was no reply from either the Fiume or the Zara. We fired some star shells to help light up the targets and the Italians apparently thought they were aircraft flares for they let go some of the guns toward the falling star shells."

Midshipman John Portman said: "I don't think any of our shells missed the Zara. After the first salvo she was heavily on fire and aft."

The Pola, disabled by aerial torpedoes which struck the gun controls and engine room, was unable to answer the British fire.

Greece Stands Firm

Convinced That Victory For Britain Is Assured

London.—The Greeks are "convinced that victory for Britain is assured," and "will fight Germany if attacked," said a Greek ministry of press and information statement quoted by the British Broadcasting Corporation.

The statement, published in the magazine, "Review of International Affairs," said: "With the armies of two great empires on the Greek frontier, no Greek is in doubt as to his duty. If attacked we fight and, what is equally certain, we shall prevail."

"We are convinced that victory for Britain is assured and that new life shall dawn upon the world."

The statement spoke of the "disgrace which Italy is suffering on the sea, disaster or flight is the fate of the Italian navy; in the air, disintegration; on land, the rout of armies."

"This is a unique war in which an empire has failed even to save its face."

Pretty Czechoslovakian Skater May Enter The States

Vancouver.—Vera Hrubá, pretty Czechoslovakian skating star who was deluged with proposals after she was crowned champion of the world, would have to marry to remain in the country, will go back to the land of her adoption $20,000 richer.

P. R. Joselyn, American consulate-general here, told the skater that she had been granted a quota number and may enter and remain in the United States.

At the same time Miss Hrubá, who has been performing here at an ice show pending straightening out of her status by U.S. authorities, said she had been left $20,000 by Mrs. Nan Foley, of Lafayette, Ind., who died recently.

Miss Hrubá said she had never met Mrs. Foley but that the Indiana woman had seen her perform and heard of her threatened deportation to Nazi-dominated Czechoslovakia.

Changed His Salute

German Officer Brought To Time By British Seaman

Alexandria, Egypt.—A German officer, an observer aboard the sunken Italian cruiser Pola, clambered up a ladder at the side of the British destroyer Mohawk after he was rescued. He extended his right arm and intoned "Heil Hitler" to a British seaman standing on the quarter-deck.

The sailor's fist landed squarely on the German's jaw and toppled him over the deck rail into the sea.

"When you come up take your place in the line and salute properly," the sailor advised. The German, dripping, reappeared with a smart British-style salute.

Canada Is Given Permission To Construct Bombs Of Martin Type

Ottawa.—Munitions Minister Howe told the Canadian Press negotiations had been started with the National Steel Car Company for construction of some 200 Glen Martin type bombers. These are American machines with twin engines, capable of long distance flights.

Permission has been given to build these aircraft in Canada and it now is a question of price and conditions under which the Canadian company would be prepared to produce them, Mr. Howe said.

One of the National Steel Car Company's large plants is at Malton, Ont.

NEW REGULATIONS IN WHEAT POLICY ARE PROPOSED

Ottawa.—Protection for the tenant farmer under the 1941-42 wheat policy is provided in regulations tabled in the House of Commons by Agriculture Minister Gardiner.

Bonus payments will not be made for reduction of wheat acreage on any farm which was operated by a tenant in 1940 and by hired labor in 1941, the regulations said.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any provincial law, a landlord is entitled to receive not more than one-third of the amount to be paid for wheat acreage reduction on a farm in which he has an interest in the crop returns.

Where he is entitled to crop returns from a part of the farm only he is entitled to receive not more than one-third of the amount paid for wheat acreage restriction on the proportion of the farm in which he holds an interest.

The landlord may receive less than one-third by mutual agreement with the farmer, or on submission of proof he is entitled to less under contract.

Preamble to regulations, established by order-in-council, set forth that because of loss of markets arising from the war, deliveries of wheat in 1941-42 should be confined to 230,000,000 bushels and the quantity to be delivered should be based on 65 per cent. of 1940 acreage.

As this would decrease the income of wheat producers on the prairies the order said, payments would be made on acreage taken out of wheat production and seeded to grass or coarse grains, or summerfallow, in 1941.

The regulations provide that $4 an acre will be paid for land in summerfallow in 1940.

For each acre sown to coarse grains or grass in 1941 over the acreage for such crops in 1940, $2 will be paid. An additional sum of $2 an acre will be paid on lands which having been sown to grass in 1941, or to rye in the autumn of 1941, are in grass or rye on July 1, 1942, notwithstanding that such land may have been summerfallow or sown to coarse grains in 1941.

Provision is made that on farms where the last wheat crop was in 1939, the acreage for that year of 60 per cent. of the cultivated acreage in 1940, whichever is the lesser may be accepted as the basis for wheat reduction in 1941.

Where there was wheat in 1940 in excess of 60 per cent. of the cultivated acreage, and in 1939 on less than 40 per cent. of the cultivated acreage, or vice versa, the average of the wheat acreage for 1939 and 1940 may be accepted as the basis for reduction.

To be eligible for payment under the wheat acreage reduction program, the farmer must make application not later than May 31 to the secretary of the municipality in which the land is situated, or, if the area is unorganized, to the provincial government.

ARMY OF NILE LEAVES BENGASI, LIBYAN SEAPORT

Cairo.—British general headquarters announced that the army of the Nile has withdrawn from Bengasi, important Libyan seaport, but has inflicted "considerable casualties on personnel and tanks" of Axis mechanized forces.

A headquarters' communique said that "in pursuance of the policy so successfully adopted at Sidi Barrani of waiting to choose our own battleground, our light covering detachments have been withdrawn to selected concentration areas."

In the course of this withdrawal, the communique said, Bengasi was evacuated after all captured military stores and equipment had been destroyed.

"Bengasi is indefensible from a military point of view," the communique added, "and it has not been used by us as a port."

The communique added that as in the autumn of last year "the enemy is evidently engaging propaganda success at the expense of stretching still further an already extended line of communications."

Even while this was announced, British officers at the middle east headquarters were openly optimistic about the prospects of an early finish of the West African campaign, in which the Red sea port of Massara remains as the only British city still held by the Italians and the British forces are closing in on Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia, from waders in the 21-year-old class.

Before announcing the withdrawal from Bengasi, the British command said Imperial forces had given up the town of Agedabia, some 80 miles south of Bengasi, and "between 75 and 80 miles of worthless desert."

Bengasi, capital of the province of the same name, is a railroad and communications centre, and one of the best African harbors on the Mediterranean. The Italians considered it part of their national territory.

For Military Training

Second Call Goes Out Under Four Months' Plan

Ottawa.—Divisional registrars across Canada have been instructed to notify 5,000 single men and children under 21 in the 21-year-old class to report April 17 for four months' compulsory training, the department of national war services announced.

Ninety per cent. of the men must be in medical category "A," and the other 10 per cent. in categories "B-1" and "B-2."

The call is the second under the four-month training plan. The first group of about the same number of men entered camp March 20.

Three 30-day training periods were held under the original regulations. The 5,000 men to be called April 17 will be divided as follows: Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, 285; New Brunswick, 200; Quebec, 1,540; Ontario, 1,450; Manitoba, 390; Saskatchewan, 465; Alberta, 385; and British Columbia, 285.

Regulations under which the call is made, according to a proclamation issued last Feb. 24, apply to "every male British subject who is or has been at any time subsequent to the first day of September, 1939, ordinarily resident in Canada and who attained or will attain the age of 21 years on or after the first day of July, 1940, unmarried or a widower without child or children."
